PT

PEDAGOGY TEAM

BILL KOPF, KAREN SIDES, KATE SIERRA

IDEA OF THE MONTH

Using the h5p.org website to create opportunities for students to demonstrate their understanding of concepts learned in class.

TLC FACULTY

TEXAS LUTHERAN • LUBBOCK CHRISTIAN • TEXAS WESLEYAN • SCHREINER • CONCORDIA

November 2017

Dear TLC Faculty,
One of the goals of the Pedagogy Team is to bring you different ways to reach today's students and to present you with ideas on how to make distance students feel a part of the class. In that vein, we'd like to show you hp5.org. This is an easy-to-use site that will allow you to create a variety of activities to check for student understanding. According to the site, students (and professors) can "make interactive videos, presentations, advertisements, and more." It's free and can be accessed from both mobile and desktop devices.

I haven't gotten a chance to use it in class yet but plan on incorporating it into my French classes in the Spring Semester. If you do use something from h5p.org let one of the members of the Pedagogy Team know!

Sincerely,
Kate Sierra

Adjunct Professor of French
Texas Wesleyan University
Pedagogy Team Lead

- A description of the 40+ FREE activities can be found here: https://h5p.org/content-types-and-applications I'm personally interested in the Interactive Videos, Speak the Words, Image Hotspots, and Audio Recorder—all of these would be easy to integrate into my French class and the online notebook we use.

- Here's a written tutorial on how to use Basic Features: https://h5p.org/documentation/for-authors/the-basics

- They have a Forum for discussing various topics: https://h5p.org/forum

- Here's a video tutorial: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7UH0qWudtp8

- Here's an entire playlist on YouTube by the creators of h5p: https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCaDpQnoP2zNxxRDcztwKXFQ