

Website Idea of the Month

Jim Becker's Best Language Websites

Not all of the TLC members are Language teachers, but this is a great resource to those of you who are. While most websites focus on “typical” languages (ahem Spanish and French), this one lists resources for more than 25 languages. In addition, you’ll find all kinds of tips to help you improve your teaching. Although geared more toward public school educators, college professors will find many ways to enliven their class and help their students more fully learn the language they are studying.

App Idea of the Month

Remind

If you’re having trouble communicating with your students because they don’t check their email, this might be a solution for you. This free app will allow you to send text messages to your students without having to reveal your phone number.

Here’s a link to a video that explains how to sign up and use it. Here’s another one.

If you have questions about these Ideas or want to contribute one (or several) to the TLC, please let me know!

Kate Sierra
Pedagogy Team Leader
Adjunct Professor of French
Texas Wesleyan University
Ksierra@txwes.edu